“The best way to find yourself is to loose yourself in service of others” Mahatma Gandhi. And I have lost myself in service of the interests of engineering students Kenyatta University and in doing so I have learnt a great deal and I have grown in all aspects of my life and still growing.

Learning doesn't take place in the classrooms only, here at KU Engineering School we are always learning, be it from our fellow students or lectures or from the technical talks, exhibitions , workshops and conferences organized by clubs and societies under this school. This helps engage students and enhance further learning. It also gives students the opportunity to interact with professionals in their field of study thus helping to bridge the gap between the students and the industry.

I am grateful to the lecturers that are always at our beck and call ensuring that that all our needs are met and maintaining a good student-teacher relationship. The laboratories and workshops here also ensure that learning doesn't happen in theory only and that we have enough practice and skill that makes us a great asset in the field.
